The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Saturday Auguſt 20, to Tueſday Auguſt 23, 1796.

Downing-Street, Auguſt 23, 1796.

THE Letters, of which the following are Copies, have been received from Colonel Craufurd by the Right Honorable Lord Grenville, His Majeſty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highneſs the Archduke Charles of Auſtria, Eſſingen, July 12, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordſhip, that News arrived this Morning of General Wartenſleben's having been attacked, on the 10th Inſtant, by General Jourdan, at Friedberg, juſt as he was preparing to retire to Bengen, and aſſemble his Army in that Camp.

The Enemy were, according to all Reports, near Four Times as ſtrong as the Auſtrians; and the latter, after having repulſed Three ſucceſſive Attacks, were obliged to retire to Bengen, with the Loſs of ſeveral Hundred Men, and One Cannon.

General Wartenſleben's Army had been divided into Three Corps along the Lahn, all of which were directing their March towards Bengen, but neither of them was ſufficiently ſtrong to make a Stand of any Conſequence, with a Probability of Succeſs. The Enemy, therefore, having arrived at the Point of Friedberg, by rapid Marches, the Morning of the Day that the Auſtrians intended to quit that Poſt, found a Force by no Means adequate to reſiſt them, and profited of this Circumſtance as I have mentioned above.

Proper Garriſons are left in Mayence, Manheim, Phillipſbourg and Ehrenbreitſtein.—The Archduke remains encamped at Pfortzheim; the Prince of Conde at Villenger, and General Frolich is ſtill in the Briſgaw.

I have the Honor to be, &c. &c. &c.

C. CRAUFURD.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highneſs the Archduke Charles of Auſtria, Gemund, July 24, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordſhip, that His Royal Highneſs the Archduke, upon receiving Intelligence of the Enemy's Intention to diſlodge the Corps at Eſſingen, and thus make themſelves Maſters of the Great Road from Stutguard to Ulm, reinforced that important Poſt in the Night of the 20th, and made the neceſſary Diſpoſitions for a moſt vigorous Defence.

On the 21ſt the Enemy made ſeveral Feints on the Right, and along the whole Front of the Camp of Felbach, whilſt they marched againſt the Heights of Eſſingen with a very ſuperior Force. Their Attack commenced there about Seven o'Clock in the Morning; and, after Five unſucceſsful Efforts, they were obliged to retire to Hohenheim near Stutgard.

The Skill with which this Poſition was defended, and the Vigor diſplayed in repulſing the reiterated and ſevere Attacks on Grounds ſo interſected and woody, that neither Cavalry nor Artillery could act with Efficacy, do equal Honor to General Hotze, who commanded, and the gallant Troops that executed his Orders. The exceſſive Heat of the Day, and the great Fatigue that they experienced, as they had all been under Arms, and moſt of them marching the whole preceding Night, did not prevent them from contending moſt courageouſly with near double their Numbers till Eight o'Clock, when Victory rewarded ſuch exemplary Conduct. I have not the leaſt Intention of making any Diſtinction between the Merits of thoſe brave Men who are all entitled to ſo great a Share of Praiſe, but I cannot help obſerving to your Lordſhip, that the firſt Battalion of the Hungarian Regiment of Spleny, fought from the Beginning of this Action without being relieved, and, though it loſt between Three and Four Hundred Men, remained in Fire till Night put a Stop to to it's uncommon Exertions.—This Circumſtance is ſo much talked of in the Army, that I feel called upon not to paſs it over in Silence.

The total Loſs of the Auſtrians on this Day was about One Thouſand Men, including ſeveral Officers; that of the Enemy amounted, according to the beſt Eſtimates which can be made from the Reports of Deſerters and Priſoners, to near Two Thouſand.

In the Night of the 20th the Archduke marched to Schorndorf, and on the 24th to this Place.

I have the Honor to be, &c. &c. &c.

C. CRAUFURD.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highneſs the Archduke Charles of Auſtria, Nordlingen, Auguſt 4, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordſhip, that His Royal Highneſs the Archduke marched from Gemund on the 26th of July, and encamped with one Part of his Main Army at Bohmenkirchen and another at Urſpringen. General Froligh was on the South of the Danube near Waldſee, the Prince of Condé near Revenſpurg, and a Corps under General Wolf at Bregentz; the Suabians were ſtlll at Bieberach, to which Place they had retired upon the Concluſion of their Armiſtice. General Wartenſleben kept his Poſition near Bamberg, having a ſmall Body of Light Troops between Nurenberg and Anſpach, for the Purpoſe of communicating with the Archduke. On the 29th General Froligh, in Compliance with an Order from the Archduke, marched to Bieberach, ſurrounded and diſarmed the Suabian Corps, obliging them to diſperſe immediately, and retire behind the Line of Operations.—After which he took his Poſition in that Neighbourhood, and the Prince of Condé marched to Waldſee, leaving an Advanced Guard near Revenſpurg. From the 26th to the 30th ſeveral Skirmiſhes happened between the Advanced Poſts; in all of theſe the Auſtrians had the Advantage; and a Detachment of Huſſars ſurprized a large French Reconnoitring Party near Hohenſtadt, between Blanbeuren and Geiſſlengen, every Man of which was either killed or taken.

On the 31ſt, as the Magazines on the Danube were placed in Safety, and as the Enemy began to manœuvre towards the Archduke's Right, His Royal Highneſs determined to concentrate his principal Force. He therefore moved, on the 1ſt of Auguſt, with his Main Army, to Haydenheim, on the 2d to Nerſheim, and on the 3d to Nordlingen, the Detached Corps retiring gradually, ſo as to cover this March.

His Royal Highneſs's general Poſition is now as follows: The Main Army at Nordlingen, with an Advanced Guard at Nerſheim; Two ſmall Corps near Boppingen and Weiltingen, to obſerve the Roads leading from thoſe Places; and a Corps of ſuperior Force at Gundelfingen, for the Purpoſe of covering the Left and keeping up the Communication with General Froligh and the Prince of Condé, the former of whom is at Weiſſenhorn, on the Both, the latter at Memmingen, with his Advanced Guard at Wurtzach.

The Enemy having diſcovered the Channel by which the Water was conveyed into the Fortreſs of Koningſtein, cut off the Supply, and by that Means reduced the Garriſon, conſiſting of about Five Hundred Men, to the Neceſſity of ſurrendering. The Troops marched out with Arms and Baggage, and they returned into the Emperor's Dominions, on Condition of not ſerving till exchanged.

I have the Honor to be, &c. &c. &c.

C. CRAUFURD.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highneſs the Archduke Charles of Auſtria, Nordlingen, Auguſt 5, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordſhip, that the Enemy attacked this Afternoon the Advanced Poſts commanded by the Prince John of Lichtenſtein, near Kirchheim; but they were repulſed with the Loſs of above Two Hundred Men taken Priſoners, and a great Number left dead on the Field. The general Poſition of the Armies remains the ſame as Yeſterday.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

C. CRAUFURD.

P. S. News is this Moment arrived of General Krays having obtained a conſiderable Advantage over the Enemy at Scuten, near Bamberg, in which Neighbourhood he had been left by General Wartenſleben, upon the latter's marching to Forcheim; but His Royal Highneſs has not yet received the Particulars of this Affair.

Copy of a Letter from Sir John Jervis, K. B. and Commander in Chief of His Majeſty's Ships and Veſſels in the Mediterranean, to Evan Nepean, Eſq; dated on Board His Majeſty's Ship Victory, off Toulon, July 1, 1796.

SIR,

THE Inconſtant joined this Morning from Leghorn; and I incloſe, for the Information of the Lords Commiſſioners of the Admiralty, Captain Fremantle's Report of the Proceedings of the Enemy in Tuſcany, their taking Poſſeſſion of Leghorn, and the Retreat of the Britiſh Factory, with moſt of their Property, which they owe to the unparalleled Exertions of Captain Fremantle, the Officers and Crew of the Inconſtant; Commodore Nelſon, owing to Calms and light Winds, not having reached Leghorn Road until the Enemy was in poſſeſſion.

I am, Sir,

Your moſt obedient humble Servant,

J. JERVIS.

Inconſtant at Sea, June 30, 1796.

SIR,

I Had the Honor of acquainting you, in my Letter of the Evening of the 23d Inſtant, accompanied with Diſpatches by the Blanche, of the ſuppoſed forcible Entry of the French Troops into Tuſcany, and their intended Invaſion of Leghorn.

On the 24th I attended a Meeting of the Conſul and Factory, where the Information that had been received was communicated; and having aſſured them that I would remain at Anchor in the Road for their Protection until the Enemy obliged me to weigh, the Merchants prepared to embark their Goods on Board the Merchant Ships and Tranſports, which were ordered immediately out of the Mole, and I requeſted Captain Craven would uſe every Diſpatch in getting the large Ships lower Maſts, Spars, &c. launched and ſecured on Board the Tranſports.

On

On the 25th many of the Merchant Veſſels, and the Elizabeth Tranſport, which was ſheathing in the Inner Mole, were got out, and the Maſts laſhed alongſide the latter.

On the 26th the Gorgon arrived about Noon, and the remaining large Spars were launched and ſent to that Ship, when having got certain Information of the Intention of the Enemy, who ſlept at Pantedera, only Eighteen Miles from Leghorn, I ordered the whole of the Convoy, amounting to Twenty-three Sail of Square-rigged Veſſels, and Fourteen Tartans, to be got under Weigh at Day-Light on the 27th; a little after Noon on that Day the French entered the Town of Leghorn, and began firing at the Inconſtant about One, when I got under Weigh with the only Veſſel remaining, which was a Prize to L'Aigle, a Brig laden with Ship Timber. Two ſmall Privateers endeavoured to cut her off, which obliged us to tack to ſupport her, and occaſioned ſome few Shot being exchanged, which however did no Damage.

Commodore Nelſon, with the Captain and Meleager, who had received Notice of the Enemy's Deſign, anchored here on the 27th at Ten o'Clock, and the Commodore added the Meleager to the Convoy, which was of much Importance, as the Enemy's ſmall Privateers were numerous and enterpriſing.

All the Shipping, nearly the Whole of the Engliſh Property, and all His Majeſty's Naval Stores and Proviſions, have been ſaved; and every Engliſh Perſon and Emigré deſirous of leaving Tuſcany, have been received on Board ſome of the Ships.

Commodore Nelſon, in the Captain, remained at Anchor off the Malora, and will doubtleſs ſtop any Engliſh Ships who may not be informed of the French being in Poſſeſſion of Leghorn.

I feel myſelf particularly obliged to Lieutenant Grey, employed in the Tranſport Service, for his great Exertions in getting the Stores, &c. off, and great Credit is due to Mr. Heatly, Agent Victualler, who was indefatigable in ſaving the Proviſions, Wine, &c.

I have Cauſe to be ſatisfied with the Unanimity and united Efforts of every Engliſh Subject on this Occaſion, where ſo little Notice could be given, and conſidering that no certain Accounts were ever received that the French were abſolutely in Tuſcany until the 25th, I hope, Sir, you will believe that nothing has been wanting to accelerate the Embarkation, or to accommodate and protect both the Perſons and Property of His Majeſty's Subjects and the unfortunate Emigrés, all of which I left ſafe off Cape Corſe Yeſterday at Noon; Lord Garlies having promiſed to ſee them in Safety into San Fiorenzo, with the Lively, Meleager, Gorgon, Comet and Vanneau.

I have the Honor to be, &c. &c. &c.

(Signed) THO FRA. FREMANTLE.
